U.S. C/C Abroad

American Chambers of Commerce Abroad

American Chambers of Commerce Abroad are voluntary associations of American enterprises and individuals doing business in a particular country, as well as firms and individuals of that country who operate in the U.S.

Along with pursuing trade policy initiatives, AmChams make available publications and services and sponsor a variety of business development programs. The AmChams represent the concerns and interests of the business community at the highest levels of government and business in trade policy development.

AmChams also:

- Develop mutually prosperous and amicable economic, social and commercial relations between U.S. businesses and service industries, and those of the host country.
- Represent members' views on policy and regulatory matters to both U.S. and host country governments, and interpret the point of view of other countries to the American business public.
- Promote local economic and social contributions for the benefit of host countries.
